traveller cleaners have established themselves as leaders in this field throughout the world for malls.

Rosemor's machines are being used in airports, railway stations, the underground, department stores, shopping centres and many other businesses. Delhi international airport, that plans to add 200 escalators, has big plans for Rosemor's Rotomac Automatic Escalator Deep Cleaner. Rosemor also has other unique products, as well as its original product line-up, with which it serves its national accounts in the UK. In addition to a complete floorcare range, this also includes supplying pressure washers and car washes to police authorities, the Royal Mail, and several other major customers.

As well as onsite training, the company now offers project-specific advice and equipment supply to meet specific needs. It has also recently started offering an escalator cleaning service where Rosemor personnel clean escalators on a contract basis. To support its expanding product range, Rosemor's website www.rosemor.com has been updated to provide further technical advice, as well as a pictorial guide to maintenance and handling.

For 40 years, steps had to be removed from escalators in malls in order to clean them. That has now changed. Rosemor's is the only automated machine in the world to simultaneously scrub and dry steps and risers in situ, leaving escalators ready for immediate use. The riser (vertical part of step) is the most visible part of an escalator. Cleaning and maintenance costs of escalators are considerably reduced compared to other methods. What took days before, now only takes hours. Manufactured in Germany by an engineering company owned by Rosemor, UK, the Rotomac escalator cleaners and Rotofast
